Just 30 Days Left: Songdoor 2007 International Songwriting Competition Ends November 15

NASHVILLE, TENN., USA - October 15, 2007 -- SongDoor 2007 entries must either be postmarked by November 15, 2007 or submitted online by midnight CST, November 15, 2007. All entrants receive a free self-paced online songwriting course at SongU.com, plus a thorough, personal evaluation of each song entered. The course and evaluation are free.

"The song evaluation alone is worth three times the entry fee, plus all writers who enter received a free online songwriting course from SongU.com, worth another $40. It's a great value, a great way to learn and and you just never know what might come of it," says SongDoor president Tony Zotta. Last year's Grand Award winner, Sean Clive ("Amazed"), went on to sweep the Unity Awards and also score wins in Unisong and the Great American Song Contest.

SongDoor 2007 is presented in association with SongU.com, Jay's Place, Masterwriter and Delgado Guitars. The prize purse is valued at more than $21,000. Complete entry information is available at <http://www.songdoor.com>. The entry fee is only $10.

Entrants are eligible to win the Grand Award, valued at approximately USD $5,100 in music merchandise and services, including a full-band, private-session demo at Jay's Place, a Music Row institution that has recorded the likes of Garth Brooks, Gretchen Wilson, Lonestar, Chet Atkins and many, many more. Other awards include a one-year Platinum Membership fo SongU.com, MasterWriter software, an acoustic guitar, gig bag, gear bag, and more. Seven Category Winners each receive a valuable package of awards worth more than $2,300.

Judges include seasoned music industry producers, artists and engineers who have worked with/for such artists as Britney Spears, Neil Young, *NSYNC, Lynyrd Skynyrd, The Allman Brothers, Jimmy Buffett, Philip Bailey of Earth, Wind & Fire, Tony Bennett, Kenny Rogers, The Charlie Daniels Band and many others.
